(AP) – The West Virginia Senate has scheduled a vote on a pay raise for law enforcement officials. C-SPAN reported Friday that the West Virginia House of Delegates approved the measure earlier this week. The bill sets pay raises for public safety officers by adding to an existing law that caps the amount of overtime pay they can receive. The current caps are $44,000 a year for police officers and $27,000 for sheriff's deputies. The proposed law would add $18,000 to each category. The bill's sponsor, state Sen. Bill Laird, says the bill will make sure that police officers and sheriffs' deputies have what they need to do their job. Gov. Earl Ray Tomblin has signed off on the bill.Q: How to remove the permission for a route in expressjs middleware? I'm writing middleware to check if the user is authorised to be on a given route. I want to hide this route from the user. So, for example, if I want to hide /users, I want to put something like this in my express middleware: app.get('/users', function(req, res, next) { res.redirect('/users'); // res.send('hide me!'); }); But the issue is that the express router will also remove all other route middlewares, and it will make the redirect. How can I prevent the router from removing other middlewares? A: Well, this is somewhat of a hack but i managed to use the original middleware. A hack is obviously a very bad idea but this is the only way I can think of. The problem is that middleware.remove already makes the redirect. // to replicate the functionality of the original middleware app.use(function(req, res, next) { req.original = req; req.original.next = next; next(); }); // middleware to hide the route app.get('/users', function(req, res, next) { 2d92ce491b
