But looking at the navigation panel, I saw that it didn't have a tour, and I wondered if this was a setting that needed to be added. When I logged into my Garmin, I was able to get a tour of Seattle, by way of WA Microsoft. This wasn't the only new feature, but I didn't get a chance to look at it until I started the trip. As a matter of fact, I had a hard time finding it. I went into Map Source, and set it up as per usual. When I went back to the main menu, I didn't see anything. What? How can that be? I checked the tour. No! Where was the tour? What else had I missed? I checked for updates. Nothing. Oh, but it was the entire file. I tried uninstalling and reinstalling the app. Still, the tour was gone. I tried searching the Garmin website for help. They had a lot of info on their site about this app, but none of it had helped. I downloaded the app from the Garmin website, just in case I messed up with the update. The tour was there, and I had a new feature. I was able to save the city of choice to a file. This was a cool feature, that I will probably use a lot. What if the next city I went to was a larger city? I would have to go through the process of getting the city saved, and then reload it. In the mean time, I'll be stuck at home. As it turns out, the carousel is a great feature, and I can't live without it. I💎
