me login. Can you help? I'm trying to install StarBucks, a free online gaming site, but have installed adobe from this site. Apparently I cannot play any of the games due to the Adobe installer blocking the system. I have all important updates, firewalls disabled and I've uninstalled and re-installed several times. This is causing me a lot of frustration as I'm in the middle of a college course and this site is currently blocking me from playing. I have checked the registry and haven't found a reference to this being installed anywhere. Does anyone know how to remove it, I can't find the program anywhere, not even in C:\Program Files. I think it may have installed itself in C:\Programs\Adobe. Please help. I am having the same problem and am getting frustrated. I have done what you say in the instructions above, uninstalled and re-installed but the problem

persists. I have searched the registry and it says it is not installed, but when I search for Adobe in HKEY_LOCAL_MACHINE, it says it is there. I also tried using 'tamper protection' option in control panel and still cannot login to my account. I also have a problem with some of the games I tried to install, their 'installer' blocked the system. I'm in the middle of a college course and this website is currently blocking me from playing. I've done everything I can think of.

Can anyone help? The other one was the result of an online drive scan for a particular file, but I only found the file on my drive. I searched for it in the registry (did a search of the name) and found it listed as a file. So I went and got rid of the file and looked in the registry. There was no reference to it whatsoever. So I deleted the file in the same drive but still no result in the registry. I don't know why I was able to find it in the registry, but not when using search.exe. 1. Click Start > Run
