-Started as a hobby, a tool to help photo galleries to become professional looking and pleasant to view. -Created initially as a small software application to help the author (me) with creating web photo albums to share images with his friends. -Currently the project is developed as a standalone program that should be able to meet all your web gallery needs, and it is free! -On the forum you can read about software updates and support, you can also join the Photo! Web Album Activation Code users group. -You can create your photo gallery with Photo! Web Album directly in the web browser. You don't need to install any software, just open a page with a link to Photo! Web Album and click the "Create Gallery" button.

- You can preview your web album before you save it to the web.

- Create and save web albums, manage your albums and images, add and remove subfolders and photos. -View galleries as a single page or in the scrolling grid mode, manage how many images you see on the page, set up an automatic gallery that refreshes when you visit the site (no need to reload the page). -Quickly upload galleries to your site, that way you won't miss the chance to show off your album! -Support for all popular web browsers. -Create web galleries for business, family, friends, and all other situations.

- Support for subfolders!
- Support for all common web galleries - Flickr, Facebook, Photobucket, photoblogging
- Help documentation with screenshots and links to relevant online resources.
- Full support in English, Romanian, and Russian.
- And a lot

system for the optical recognition of products, in particular for the automatic recognition of articles such as fruit, vegetables and the like. The article recognition system according to the present invention is generally applicable to the automatic recognition of products, in particular foodstuffs and the like, and is generally independent of the method of transporting said articles. Systems for the optical recognition of products have been known and used for many years, both for the identification of single articles and also for the control of the presentation of such articles in supermarkets. The existing systems generally employ a matrix of sensors or a linear array of sensors disposed at the point of discharge of the articles from a conveyor, whereupon information is obtained as to the characteristics of the articles, which information is then used to discriminate between different articles. However, the existing systems suffer from many disadvantages, in particular the systems are of limited accuracy, the systems require a high degree of positioning, the systems may have a limited working life and the systems are not readily amenable to the continuous introduction of fresh articles for inspection.
