I can pull down the php api docs from the Github api but how do I actually link to the API from the php page? Like if I wrote some php on top of the api docs here: So instead of writing $someStr = "some string" to the docs I want to link to the api docs or how can I actually write my own phpdoc above the docs rather than a manual on the github page... A: You don't have to link to a Github repository. Github has a link generator to turn any Github repository page into a GitHub documentation. In this case, there is no documentation to turn into a page because you created your own page. Generate documentation using a link generator Note: This is a paid feature, if you want to generate documentation for a public repository. Basically you will need to sign into your Github account, then go to under the "Online documentation" click on "Add new site", give your Github account the address for the page you want to turn into docs then click Generate (this will cost you

$50). Q: Can I use Windows SBS edition to create the small business edition image? I have Windows SBS running on a VPS and I would 09e8f5149f
