AutoSmiley With Registration Code For Windows

The most useful application for the users that want to use their webcam for entering smileys in their documents or chat applications. The program only enters the ":))" and allows you to decide weather you want to send the message or not. It allows you to avoid typing irritating "" in your document if you want to indicate that someone is smiling or blinking on the Internet. The application is based on the smile detection technology and uses the default camera attached to the computer. FAQ Can I change the webcam? No. The application is not able to change the webcam orientation. Can I use the webcam from another program? No. The application is designed for use with the webcam where it is attached, for example in the default webcam. Do you have a demo version available? Yes, go to the support page. The source code is available there. Does it support more webcams? Yes, the application supports more webcams for smile detection. You have to select them from a list and click the Start button. How to optimize camera settings for smile detection? It's not possible to optimize webcam settings. The smile detection technology has its own requirements and parameters in order to work properly. The default camera parameters are used here. You can't set the camera for example in portrait or landscape mode, because this will directly affect the smile detection process. Why is the smile detection so unreliable? The smile detection technology seems to be based on a threshold level. If the camera is too bright or too dark, the algorithms don't work properly. The requirements are the following: Distance between the camera and your face must be not more than 10 centimeters. The person in front of the camera is the person in question. Your smile can't be the result of an activity. For example if you are eating or drinking. What if I can't smile? Then the detected smile is ignored. What if someone laughs at me? If you have no problem with laughter or crying, your smile detection is not affected. Can I send messages to the person in front of the camera and the program automatically finds the smile? Yes, you can define where the camera is positioned in the window (see the menu bar). You can also define the width of the smile (see the menu bar).
